Bosa Foundation announces first Victoria donations

November 2 2011

The development company that's about to break ground on one of Victoria's tallest high-rises has announced a series of charitable contributions.

Bosa Properties Vice President Daryl Simpson says the "Bosa Foundation" will give selected community groups 177 thousand dollars...

"A thousand dollars for every home that we build, so we're building 177 homes at Promontory, so we're pleased to be able to provide 177 thousand dollars in funding to local community organizations and individuals that make an impact in this local community"

The first three grants were announced today; to expand a Cool-Aid program called "Every Step Counts"; to the family self sufficiency porogram at the Burnside-Gorge Community Association; and to the Community Micro Lending Society.

Simpson says Bosa's practice of giving back to the community is a long standing tradition on the Lower Mainland where the company has been in the development business for decades.
