

New city highrise sells out in record time

BY JANAYA FULLER-EVANS, WITH FILES FROM ALFIE LAU, BURNABY NOW FEBRUARY 26, 2011

In demand: A lineup forms outside the Sovereign sales centre at Kingsway and Willingdon.

Photograph by: Larry Wright, BURNABY NOW

Burnaby's latest highrise residential development sold out last week before construction on the project had even started.

Sovereign, a 202-unit residential and retail tower planned near Metrotown, sold out last Saturday after more than 600 people lined up to purchase units.

"There was a strong, latent demand for a project like this in the Metrotown area," Daryl Simpson, vice-president of Bosa Properties, said in a phone interview.

